Q: HOW HAS COVID IMPACTED THE RETAIL INDUSTRY IN CHINA?

Overall, the Covid and strict zero policy has had a negative impact on China's retail industry due to logistics, non-attendance of sales and service personnel, closing of business premises, and decreased customer demand. But Covid has a very different impact on China's online and offline retail industries. Online retail has been the least affected, they are still booming.

In the traditional offline retail industry, shopping centers are the most negatively affected, the customers of restaurants and entertainment stores in shopping centers are decreasing more than 50%. Followed by the supermarkets and convenience stores. Due to the concern of people about gathering places under the COVID, the frequency of personal daily shopping is reduced, and online shopping is increasing.

OVERVIEW

CHINA'S ECONOMY

The GDP in China grew by 3.9% in the third quarter and by 3% annually. The GDP is estimated to have been 121,020.7 billion yuan in 2022.

CHINA'S QUARTERLY GDP GROWTH FROM 2020 TO 2022

OVERVIEW

GDP COMPOSITION IN CHINA

Primary, secondary, and tertiary sector outputs totaled 5.48, 35.02, and 46.53 trillion yuan in the first three quarters of the year, respectively. Annual percentage increases of 4.2%, 3.9%, and 2.3% were seen in each of the three categories, respectively.

The primary sector contributed 6.29%, the secondary sector 40.24%, and the tertiary sector 53.47% to GDP growth.

OVERVIEW

EXPORTS AND IMPORTS

China's exports and imports both took significant hits in November due to domestic Covid disruptions and sluggish worldwide demand. The country's export boom, which had been fueled by a pandemic, appeared to be over.

Chinese exports decreased 8.7% in November from the same period a year ago to $296 billion, following a 0.3% drop in October..

OVERVIEW

INDUSTRY GROWTH

China's industrial production increased 2.2% year on year in November 2022, falling short of market expectations of a 3.6% growth and slowing from a 5.0% increase the previous month.

This was the slowest expansion in industrial production since May, owing to increased COVID infections and rigorous controls, as well as a dip in the real estate industry.

OVERVIEW

SLOW RETAIL CONSUMPTION

Retail sales growth staged a fragile rebound in the third quarter, falling slightly to 2.7% in July before rising to 5.4% in August before falling again to 2.5% in September.

However, it's indicated that the trend was driven by macroeconomic conditions and the reappearance of Covid cases, and that it was partially a reflection of the variation in numbers between June and September. Overall, retail sales increased by 0.7% YoY in the first three quarters of 2022.

Despite depreciation of the RMB versus the USD, the RMB's exchange rate against a basket of major currencies, as assessed by the CFETS RMB index, has remained relatively constant.

From January 4 to November 3, 2022, the RMB gained 10.4%, 4.2%, and 0.9% against the Japanese yen, pound, and euro, respectively.

OVERVIEW

20TH CPC NATIONAL CONGRESS

The 20th National Congress, also known as Er Shi Da (二十大), began on October 16, 2022, in Beijing and ended on October 22, 2022. At the Congress, President Xi achieved an unprecedented third term as China's top leader.

During the concluding session of the CPC's 20th National Congress, the Report of the 19th Central Committee was adopted. The whole report contains almost 32,500 Chinese characters, and delegates were given a printed version of 72 pages.

During the opening session, President Xi addressed the report's principal points. In keeping with the theme of the 19th National Congress, the topic of the Congress in 2022 was “Hold aloft the magnificent banner of socialism with Chinese characteristics and work in unity to construct a modern socialist country in all aspects.”

MOST FREQUENTLY USED WORDS IN THE REPORT

OVERVIEW

20TH CPC NATIONAL CONGRESS – IMPLICATIONS AND OPPORTUNITIES

1. DEVELOPMENT

Development remains a primary aim, with GDP per capita reaching the level of moderately developed countries by 2035.

There were some concerns before the Congress that China would deprioritise economic growth. These fears were unjustified, as the development target for 2035 was strengthened inside the two-step strategic plan of constructing a modern socialist country in every way.

2. MAINTAIN SOCIALIST ECONOMY

China will keep working toward its goals of a high-standard socialist market economy, a new development paradigm, and a focus on quality growth.

"China must first and foremost pursue high-quality development," according to the report. China's prime priority in managing and revitalizing itself is development. "We cannot establish a magnificent contemporary socialist country in all aspects without solid material and technological basis."

3. PRIORITY

Science and technology, education, talent, and green development will be prioritised by China.

The transformation of China's economy into an innovation-driven one relies on a number of key strategic pillars, one of which is science and technology.

Q: WHAT WERE THE MOST SIGNIFICANT CHANGES THAT HAPPENED IN CHINA IN 2022?

The demand for urban consumer goods has increased rapidly, and mobile shopping industries have shown significant growth. The trend of switching the offline consumption to online continues to strengthen, and the user scale of local life and fresh food e-commerce industry has achieved double-digit growth, while driving the improvement of the local takeaway service industry.

"Online search and booking + in-store service" and "instant delivery" have become the main modes of local consumption for urban users. All related industries fluctuate with the change of urban social environment to meet the consumption needs of urban people in different states.

Q: WHAT WERE THE MOST SIGNIFICANT CHANGES HAPPENING IN CHINA IN 2022?

Due to the complex impacts of geopolitical and pandemic risks, the downward pressure on China's economy is still striking. However, the rapid development of China's digital economy has played a significant role in driving the development of GDP.

According to the 2022 China's Digital Economy Development Report released by the CAICT, the scale of China's digital economy has reached 45.5 trillion RMB ($6.72 trillion) in 2021, accounting for 39.8% of GDP and ranked second in the world. In the future, digital economy will be a significant contributor to the economy growth and will further help empower China's high-quality development.

Q: WHAT ARE SOME IMPORTANT ECONOMIC TRENDS IN CHINA YOU SEE RIGHT NOW?

1. The convergence of the retail consumption, technology and internet (5G) sectors to create a new trend known as “Lifestyle Tech”, focused on Electric Vehicles, Renewables and the Retail sector. This will be an increasingly important theme for investors seeking to profit from the growth of China’s domestic economy.
2. More than any other leader of the Chinese Communist Party, President Xi has sought to make the environment part of his lasting legacy. He has dramatically cut air pollution and set out ambitious goals for China, including a target to reach net-zero emissions by 2060. This involves China reducing its carbon emissions by the equivalent of France’s annual emissions for each of the next 30 years! A difficult balancing act between maintaining current energy security (which requires burning fossil fuels) and the rapid development of renewable energy involving the investment of literally trillions of dollars.

Q: WHERE'S RETAIL TECH IN CHINA TODAY IN 2023? WHAT WILL BE THE MAJOR GROWTH AREAS?

One of the major growth areas to watch in the coming year is Chinese brands expanding overseas. Chinese brands and companies are now competing at the mid- to high-end areas of the value chain, which means products are brand-focused, quality-conscious, and service-oriented.

As a result, in 2023 overseas Chinese brands will bring stronger competition to global markets. Especially with the loosening of COVID restrictions, I am expecting to see major growth in the three areas of consumer tech, toys, and lifestyle products.

Q: WHAT KIND OF DIGITAL TRANSFORMATION, IN YOUR OPINION, IS TAKING PLACE IN CHINA?

Since 2021, e-commerce live streaming has experienced explosive growth. In 2022, this becomes even more mature. Chinese consumers' live-streaming shopping habits continue to deepen. At the same time, China has successively introduced policies to encourage the development of the live-streaming e-commerce industry, focusing on cultivating live-streaming talents, encouraging live-streaming to sink into the market, and strengthening industry norms to ensure the healthy development of the industry.

At present, the main group of people watching live streaming consists of users under the age of 40, and users in cities below the third tier are active, and there are more and more users over the age of 51. Fashion, price, brand and quality are the core points that influence users. More and more brands are starting to conduct daily store live-streaming, and at the same time combine KOL live streaming to build a brand live streaming matrix and win potential sales. For brands, how to build or improve e-commerce live streaming strategies has become particularly important.

Q: WHAT DIGITAL TRANSFORMATION ADVICE CAN YOU GIVE COMPANIES IN CHINA?

Understanding the Tech and Digital market in China can be overwhelming due to its uniqueness and complexities. Everyone will try to tell you their solutions are cheaper and better. In reality, brands need to be able to remain independent from their vendors by choosing technologies that do not lock them up – restrict their data and source code ownership, operation, and scalability. The most optimal tech options are Open-Source solutions that can be served by many partners.

While CapEx is important, ensuring that a brand has the chance to challenge its vendors to do their best and put them into the competition is key. Too many brands today are still making the poor decision to leverage their distributor and Tmall Partners' infrastructure. And when it comes to the moment of scaling up or changing vendors, the switch may not be doable. Therefore, having a very clear methodology for the digital transformation process is key to set solid foundations and remove each of the frictions that exist between the brand and its customers, ultimately maximizing both the top and bottom lines.

Q: IN YOUR VIEW, WHAT KIND OF DIGITAL TRANSFORMATION IS HAPPENING IN CHINA?

“Metaverse” has become a new buzzword in China, bringing about a host of new and exciting business opportunities. Chinese technology companies have begun testing the water by developing metaverse type apps, trademarking metaverse-related phrases, and investing in the VR/AR segment.

As harried as the gaming industry might be in China, there are plenty of other potential uses for metaverse tech — especially when it comes to entertainment, with the country’s recent boom in “virtual idols,” or computer-generated singers and models. At the end of 2021, the Chinese tech giant Tencent held China’s first virtual music festival, which reportedly drew 100,000 simultaneous users at its peak.

KEY TRENDS IN CHINA

EXPERT BITE

Q: WHAT ARE THE TOP 10 CHINA TECH TRENDS YOU SEE / WATCH? ?

The year 2023 will put China's tech trends back on the radar. I would watch closely "high-end" and "deep tech" domestic breakthroughs in many B2B sectors such as the microchip, biotech, energy transition, agriculture, construction and transportation industry. This will aid smart cities, smart logistics and autonomous transportation go from hype to realization.

Consumer trends to keep an eye on in the field of electrical vehicles, FinTech (CBDCs) and AI enabled services to the growing middle class of China. We should definitely not forget the trend of a China regulated metaverse and Web 3.0 creating a parallel universe that could potentially experience the same disruption as China's superapps had on Chinese consumers.

Q: WHAT WERE THE KEY CHINA TRENDS IN 2022?

So many trends to address. But here is a short version.

Multilateral relations – China’s current economy is still dependent on three key categories: Manufacturing/exports; domestic consumption; and the continued focus on domestic innovation, and self-sufficiency. China’s relations with the rest of the world will have a great influence on how all three develop in the next few years.

COVID-19 – Chinese social, political, and economic life will depend on how the evolution of the pandemic response goes forward. Social norms will inform how, where, when, why and from whom Chinese people are employed, save, buy and conduct their family and social lives.

MICHAEL ZAKKOUR

EXPERT BITE

Q: WHICH IN YOUR VIEW ARE THE 3 MOST IMPORTANT TRENDS FOR CHINA 2023?

Global trade collaboration is heading in new and unexpected directions. The recent tightening of U.S. regulatory control over advanced technologies will hasten China's costly pursuit of technological independence, while China's manufacturing demand and demographic growth structure will begin to slow. In the face of these shifts, China will need to dramatically increase the export of innovation and shift away from being a provider of low-cost goods.

The Chinese brand has been significantly tarnished by Western propaganda since the pandemic. As travel out of China increases and post Covid infrastructure investments restarts, China will need to recalibrate its message to the international market.

China needs to boost domestic consumption. Consumer spending is constrained by high unemployment, which makes it difficult for both the young, high-skilled workforce and the aging, low-skilled workforce to find work. Failure to create the expected employment opportunities for recent college graduates will affect consumption in the next few years.

Q: WHAT WERE THE MAJOR TRENDS IN CHINA IN 2022?

Chinese consumers are gaining awareness of climate change and are have high tendency to choose sustainable products, as well as recycling more frequently. In fact, 45% of consumers in China are willing to pay a premium for green products.

On the other hand, young consumers want to express themselves through their hobbies and this is reflected in consumer habits. For example, accessible, inclusive and non-competitive sports such as flying disk throwing have grown significantly in popularity. In 2008, there were barely 100 people playing the sport, now the number of flying disks in China has reached around 500,000 according to research by China's flying disc administrative committee. As a result, flying disk brand Yikun pivoted its focus from professional players to amateurs at the beginning of 2022.

LOCKDOWN IMPACT IN CHINA

EXPERT BITE

Q: WHAT IMPACT DO YOU THINK THE LOCKDOWN IN CHINA HAS HAD ON THE PURCHASING HABITS AND PURCHASING POWER OF CHINESE CONSUMERS?

The pandemic has accelerated the way people communicate and interact online, and it has also forced the digital transformation and upgrading of various industries. Consumers' preferences towards online shopping have increased significantly, and social media has also become an inherent part of consumers' digital lives.

Therefore, digital transformation has become increasingly critical to both domestic and foreign brands.

Q: HOW DO YOU BELIEVE THE LOCKDOWNS AFFECTED CHINESE CONSUMERS' CONSUMPTION POWER?

Young people are more rational in consumption: 58.6% of young people choose to "only buy what they need" and 18.6% choose to "buy whatever they can afford". From the perspective of consumption trends, the categories with a high proportion of "Houtang" consumption amounts are life of interest, vaccine services, games/video services, and the proportion of the post-1995 generation in these three categories is more than 40%. In the category of "Houlang" with fast growth in consumption amount, the transaction volume of vaccine services increased by 473% year on year. At the same time, the transaction volume of living services, festival food/gift certificates, flowers, car services, game/video services and sporting goods all increased by more than 50% year on year.

Q: DO YOU THINK CHINESE CONSUMERS' PURCHASING POWER WAS AFFECTED BY THE RECENT LOCKDOWNS?

The pandemic has indeed had an impact on brand strategy as well as on consumer behavior. The market is changing all the time, but the importance of consumption is still increasing. I still remain optimistic about Chinese consumers' consumption power. In the future, people will have higher expectations for brands, which are not just a logo, but represent a way of life and values. Therefore, the emotional value that brands can provide will become increasingly important. In terms of marketing, how to identify the brand value and how to effectively convey the brand philosophy and value to consumers is very decisive.

It became clear that low vaccination rates among the elderly and limitations in rural healthcare provision were impediments to further easing the restrictions.

Policymakers kept their cautious stance despite the obvious negative effects on the economy at large, citing new research on the devastating long-term effects of Covid-19 infection for those who contract it in countries that allow a high prevalence of infection in the community, as well as the increased virulence of the BA.5 variant of Omicron. These are only a few of the hundreds of small Chinese cities that have profited from better transit for personal travel and shipping commodities. Holiday "revenge spending" includes hectic online purchasing.

Since early January, pent-up spending has risen for the first Spring Festival as China optimized its anti-COVID reaction. Low prices make outdoor marketplaces in small cities and villages popular before the Spring Festival.

Q: WHAT IMPACT DO YOU THINK THE LOCKDOWN IN CHINA HAS HAD ON CHINESE CONSUMERS' SPENDING HABITS AND PURCHASING POWER?

The recurring partial and total lockdowns since 2022 allowed new consumer behaviours to develop, such as 45 degree-lifestyle (in between 躺平-lying flat- and 996-burn out), with consumers realising the value of a balanced lifestyle, as well a return to nostalgia, which we have seen with the popularity of online concert from people's childhood. We also see that the habits developed offline (such as daily coffee orders), stick around, where consumers bring these habits into DIY and develop at-home consumption.

Q: WHAT IMPACT DO YOU ANTICIPATE CHINA'S LOCKDOWNS WILL HAVE HAD ON CHINESE CONSUMERS' HABITS AND PURCHASING POWER?

The pandemic has prompted consumers to make significant personal changes with a greater focus on work-life balance, this will impact consumer behaviour. For example, there is a growth in demand for wellbeing products, meditation, yoga and mindfulness as people look to heal themselves. One area we have seen this effect is the pet care category.

The fact that pets are good for mental health has been known for decades and during the pandemic sales in the pet care category rose to $154 billion in 2021, up from $128 billion in 2018. Increased popularity of outdoor pastimes is also a trend that's come out of the pandemic. During 6.18, the interest in fishing from young consumers skyrocketed according to Tmall and Taobao. Around three million Gen Z consumers bought lures and rods compared with two million in the 12 months ending June 2022.

Q: WHAT'S YOUR VIEW ON CHINA'S 'REOPENING REBOUND', WILL THE ECONOMY, INDUSTRIES, CONSUMER SPENDING / SENTIMENT, INNOVATION, ETC., BOUNCE BACK QUICKLY (WITHIN H1) OR WILL IT TAKE A WHILE. WHY SO?

As the dust settles after this 180 degree shift on Covid, we expect to find a much thinner middle class in China than pre-pandemic. Mom and pop shops, entrepreneurs, and the robust "informal economy" has been badly hurt by the last year of "on-again-off-again" business. We expect 70-90 percent or pre-pandemic spending, a continued shift towards "value" buying from the would-be middle class, but solid/robust spending from the top quartile of China's consumer pyramid. Basically, while the rich haven't gotten richer, they're hungry – and able - to make up for lost experiences.

Q: IN YOUR VIEW, WHAT CAN FOREIGN TECH LEARN FROM CHINA'S DIGITAL JOURNEY? WHAT CAN CHINA LEARN FROM THE 'WORLD'?

After Covid, American companies are disconnected from the progress that has been made in China. And the same thing for Chinese companies. This is very dangerous for competitiveness. We need to start traveling again and really get people on the ground, feeling how the world is evolving. Given the scale of change that's going on, reports simply aren't enough. That's why over the next year, I'll be going to China probably every quarter to see what's changing and hosting Chinese executives here in Silicon Valley.

Q: WHAT HAVE YOU LEARNED ABOUT THE CHINA MARKET IN 2022 THAT SURPRISED YOU?

2022 was hard for almost every business here in China, except EV cars, low-budget retail, and a few other industries. I saw in 2022 that many B2B clients were not ready to try some new offerings without a clear explanation of "how it can help their business now, not in the future." Everyone was surviving in 2022 and calculating ROI on every deal, even small ones. 2023 should make it easier, but still, it will take time.

The Negative List for Foreign Investment Access and the Negative List for Foreign Investment in Pilot Free Trade Zones. These two negative lists enumerate the industries where foreign investment will either be prohibited or restricted. The National Negative List and the FTZ Negative List were shortened to 31 and 27 items, respectively. Both the lists widened the opening of the automobile manufacturing and the radio and TV device manufacturing sectors.

5 CONSUMER BEHAVIOR TRENDS

EXPERT BITE

Q: WHAT CONSUMER BEHAVIOR SHIFTS DO YOU SEE/ ANTICIPATE IN CHINA IN 2023?

Health is true wealth. Having tasted a different flavor in the past 3 years with ups and down unlike any other in the past 2 decades, people will gravitate more towards checking back of packs, aka, ingredients or source of material, how natural is it, etc., more than before. Functional efficacy will once again become far more important than just emotional appeal.

NISHTHA MEHTA

EXPERT BITE

Q: WHAT DO YOU THINK CHINESE CONSUMERS WILL FOCUS ON IN TERMS OF CONSUMPTION?

They have become more rational and conservative. No longer "proud" of spending more money, they are competing to save and only buy what they think they need. Deep discounts are no longer the main trigger because most hold out for higher quality. There is a profound focus on self-care, life's little luxuries and personal comfort. They are still fond of customized service and fresh concepts, but they must be worth it.

RATIONAL SPENDING

AS PEOPLE BECOME MORE LOGICAL AND RATIONAL, IT WILL BE HARDER FOR UP-AND-COMING FIRMS TO QUICKLY EXPAND THEIR CUSTOMER BASES.

MORE NUANCED UNDERSTANDING OF CUSTOMER REQUIREMENTS IS REQUIRED FOR LOCATING NOVEL ENTRY POINTS.

2

EMOTIONAL AND PURPOSE-DRIVEN MARKETING

PEOPLE ARE MORE RECEPTIVE TO MARKETING THAT APPEALS TO THEIR EMOTIONS AND SENSE OF PURPOSE NOW THAT THEY ARE MORE AWARE OF THE WORLD AROUND THEM.

BY REDUCING STRESS AND PROVIDING HUMOROUS OPPORTUNITIES, "CLOUD" ENTERTAINMENT AND SOCIALIZING ENABLES COMPASSION AND GENUINE INTERACTIONS.

WORK FROM HOME

BRANDS NEED TO DIVERSIFY THEIR OFFERINGS IN ORDER TO APPEAL TO CONSUMERS WITH A WIDE RANGE OF PREFERRED WAYS OF LIFE AT HOME.

CHANGING SOCIAL HABITS

4

THROUGH MIXED EXPERIENCES, CONSUMERS SOCIALIZE DIFFERENTLY. BRANDS MAY USE CONSUMER-DRIVEN LIVE STREAMING AND ONLINE EVENTS TO LINK COMMUNITIES VIRTUALLY.

COMMUNITY COMMERCE

5

THE 1KM PROXIMITY ECONOMY HAS RISEN ENORMOUSLY WITH THE STAGED OPENING OF CITIES POST-RECOVERY.

COMMUNITY MEDIA AND AGILE METHODS CAN HELP ORGANIZATIONS ACHIEVE A COMPETITIVE ADVANTAGE AND BE TOP-OF-MIND QUICKLY.

Q: HOW HAVE CHANGES IN THE CHINESE MARKET AFFECTED CONSUMERS' MOODS, TRAVEL PLANS, AND EXPECTATIONS IN THE PAST YEAR?

The biggest impact of a comparative slowdown, is that Chinese consumers have become far more discerning in terms of value. In categories, where ‘hype’ or ‘flash’ purchasing been a regular fixture - such as cosmetics and health supplements – consumers are now doubling-down on product benefits. It would be no exaggeration, to say that purchase in many FMCG categories has seen a shift from consumer mindset from “shopping as a hobby” to “shopping as an investment”.

Q: ECOMMERCE-WISE, WHAT ARE THE BIGGEST CHALLENGES AND OPPORTUNITIES YOU SEE IN CHINA IN 2023?

Challenges:

After 3 years of the epidemic, most consumers lack confidence in consumption. Saving money to fight uncertainty has become the mainstream, and consumers tend to be conservative in consumption.

Opportunities:

The middle class continues to rise, over the next three years, China is expected to add another 71 million upper-middle-class and above household. Affluent consumers prefer premium over mass-market brands. For example, sales on Tmall of premium skincare brands enjoyed compound annual growth of 52% between 2019 and 2021. This implies it more than doubled, compared with just 16% for mass-market brands. With the continuous development of network technology, computing power, AI and other technologies, the consumer metaverse is bound to carry the next trend of consumer industry upgrading.

Q: WHAT HAVE YOU DISCOVERED ABOUT CHINESE CUSTOMERS IN THE LAST YEAR THAT HAS SURPRISED YOU?

What amazes me is the industry that anxiety brings. Consumers' anxiety about life continues to give birth to new industries. And this anxiety manifests itself in many ways. Due to work pressure under the pandemic, health concerns brought about by insomnia, obesity, food safety, and consumption brought about by consumers' demand for companionship, industries such as functional food, low-alcohol alcohol, and Internet dating have continued to burst into vitality.

Q: WHAT'S YOUR OPINION ON CHINA'S METAVERSE?

At this point China is leading the rest of the world in developing what will eventually become a functional Metaverse. I think the reality is that we are still in early stages here but it's clear that China means to be a leader in this space as Chinese tech firms are leading globally in terms of their investment into related technology and in terms of their development of active platforms.

We are already seeing China use the Metaverse for retail and 2022's Double 11 saw brands start to roll out omnichannel shopping opportunities via "The City of Rhythm" on Tmall and I think these types of digital experiences are going to take off into next year as they allow brands to create a lot of new methods of active communication with potential customers.

Q: IN YOUR VIEW, WHAT ARE THE CHALLENGES AND OPPORTUNITIES IN CHINA CONSUMER SECTOR FOR FOREIGN BRANDS IN 2023?

The year 2023 will go down as the year where the Chinese market opens back up in scale. Two resulting areas of opportunities are the return of the large gatherings and the travelling Chinese consumer. For brands this means doubling down on things like physical marketing events and travel retail campaigns.

One of the main new challenges this comes with is recognizing customers from China when they visit stores abroad, as new regulations in China forbid export of personal data without explicit consent. Sophisticated technology to capture various levels consent and pseudo-anonymized data exports need to be put in place to overcome this challenge.

Q: HOW DID LAST YEAR (SLOWING ECONOMY, LOCKDOWNS, RAPID OPENING UP, ETC) IMPACT AND SHIFT CONSUMER SENTIMENT, JOURNEYS AND EXPECTATIONS?

Given that external demand from outside China is expected to further fall due to possible global recession, there is going to be greater reliance and expectation from internal consumer consumption. And as per the latest release by National Bureau of Statistics, 2022 saw the Chinese consumer's consumption drop dramatically after a hike in 2021, which added to a record 17.8 trillion yuan (USD 2.6 trillion) to their bank deposits in 2022. So imagine how with the excitement of free movement, these savings will come handy for spending on smarter wealth management, health care, personal upskilling development as top priorities vis a vis casual leisure spending. Chinese consumers are realizing that useful long-term value-based spending is more beneficial than just instant gratification spending.

China's 400+ million millennials represent a huge and emerging consumer group with a large impact on the economy. Most millennials own smartphones that are constantly in use and used in more versatile ways than their counterparts in the West.

Millennials enjoy luxury brands. Forecasts expect them to make up 40% of global luxury goods sales by 2024, with around 58% of that group aged 18 to 30.

Q: WHAT ARE IMPORTANT CHANGES YOU SEE IN THE CONSUMPTION BEHAVIOUR OF MILLENNIALS?

With pandemic-related concerns, Chinese consumers are more inclined to scrutinize their spending, reconsidering purchases as investments rather than methods to satisfy short-term pleasures. Thus, many millennials adopt a “less is more” approach when purchasing. With this consumer insight, brands need to consider the product’s cost-effectiveness. Also, don’t forget to integrate this life philosophy into communication themes to connect with them emotionally, just as many cosmetic and skincare brands respond to the Skip-care trend.

Q: WHERE'S CHINA'S EV MARKET TODAY VS THE REST OF THE WORLD. WHERE'S CHINA LEADING AND WHERE'S IT LAGGING?

Tesla started the EV revolution in the USA around 2012, and it first swept over to Europe. BYD started to develop EVs at the same time, but with much less publicity. NIO was the first well known EV brand. Tesla entered the Chinese market with lots of success. When they could offer their Shanghai made Model 3 and Model Y for Chinese pricing in 2020, this gave Tesla a huge push in China. After 2020, China can be considered the most advanced EV market in the world.

China leads with infrastructure. There are only electric buses and lots of EVs in Shenzhen, and NIO provides a fantastic battery swap system throughout the whole country. Shanghai strongly supports new licensing of EVs, while traditional cars are very hard to license. You don't find this kind of infrastructure and public support in other markets. Battery systems have been developed in China for a decade, CATL is leading and growing very fast. However, the supply chain is still depending on international brands in the powertrain, especially for EV motors, safety systems, etc.

Trying some new forms of collaborations, such as cooperation with variety shows, cooperation with offline exhibitions or galleries, and offline events with KOLs would be the best way. Live streams are still a very popular way to sell goods. In the future, brands can do more KOL and live broadcasting methods. This method can more intuitively look at the sales and can answer users' questions in a more timely manner.

Q: IF YOU WERE TO CHOOSE ONE, WHICH CONSUMER GROUP DO YOU THINK HAS THE MOST SPENDING POWER RIGHT NOW?

Currently, Generations Y and Z are the main consumer groups. The number of Generation Y has reached 315 million, while Generation Z has reached 233 million due to decreasing fertility rates.

Generation Y's annual consumption scale reached 6.68 trillion yuan, and Generation Z's reached 4.94 trillion yuan.

In some areas, Generation Z has begun to lead changes in consumption trends, although Generation Y is still the main force in the consumer market. As Generation Z enters the work force and their income increases, they will become a powerful growth point in the future.

Q: IF JUST STARTING OFF WITH SEO IN CHINA - WHICH SECRET STRATEGY DOES BRING RESULTS?

The most interesting keywords, with high search volume, are often out of reach for regular websites. Baidu places their own services like Baike and Zhidao at the top rankings, in addition to powerful platforms like Tmall, Taobao and JD. But these platforms don't do a great job targeting long-tail keywords. For countries like UK, this might only result in one visitor a month - but in China it could be much higher. A well-thought-through long-tail keyword strategy might be a key for many businesses seeing success from SEO in China in 2023.

Q: WHAT WILL BE MOST IMPORTANT THING TO GET RIGHT WITH FOR LUXURY BRANDS IN CHINA IN 2023?

China is on the path to a full reopening with international travel for consumers expected to become a reality in the near future. When this happens, there is bound to be a redistribution of consumer spending across markets, and brands have to create strategies that will further motivate consumers locally and retain domestic spending. This means developing richer experiences, CRM solutions both for personalisation as well as making sure that they focus on the right consumer segments.

LOWER-TIER CITY YOUTH

Strong consumer demand comes from the vast number of individuals who live in third-tier and lower-tier cities. Third- and fourth-tier city residents' optimism in the economy has grown as a result of recent economic growth. In Chinese, this is frequently referred to as the "sinking market," however this term is usually used to describe the low tier rather than a decline in demand or spending.

EXPERT BITE

Q: WHAT WILL THE GENERAL CONSUMER SENTIMENT BE IN 2023 WHEN IT COMES TO CHINESE LOWER-TIER CITIES YOUTH?

Young consumers in China's lower-tier cities are a new consumer group that cannot be ignored. For local young consumers with houses and cars but much lower living costs, their incomes are more discretionary. Therefore, the consumption attitude of young consumers in lower-tier cities is not much different from that of young consumers in first-tier cities.

Specifically, they also have strong consumption needs and are willing to try new things. They are the main drivers of consumption upgrades in lower-tier cities. In addition, young consumers in lower-tier cities are highly dependent on e-commerce channels that bridge the gap between lower-tier and higher-tier markets. Moreover, short videos, live streaming and social media content have gradually become consumer touchpoints in lower-tier cities. Products recommended by influencers are well accepted.

Q: IN YOUR VIEW HOW HAVE THE EXPECTATIONS OF LUXURY CONSUMERS IN CHINA CHANGE / EVOLVE IN THE LAST 3 YEARS?

I think luxury consumers in China are now incredibly sophisticated when it comes to their taste and expectations. The market has become more and more saturated with Western brands and now also domestic luxury brands all fighting for their attention. The options available to the luxury consumer are greater than ever before. To grab their attention brands, need to not only offer a premium shopping and service experience, but it needs to be unique, differentiating and innovative.

Q: WHAT ARE IMPORTANT CHANGES YOU SEE IN THE CONSUMPTION BEHAVIOR OF LOWER TIER CITY YOUTH?

Xiachen youth are increasingly digitalized, more so than older residents. A move from the centralization of first-tier cities, the Xiachen youth are determined to become more in their hometown instead of leaving and pursuing plans in the city. Compared to the past, Xiachen youth today have more spending power and are not in debt. The closeness of the average age when a Xiachen youth will likely own their first luxury product with first-tier city counterparts proves their increase in economic leverage. More importantly, Xiachen youth are adamant about supporting and actively revitalizing the guochao trend, emphasizing domestic products compared to their counterparts.

Companies and consumers are paying more attention to automation. The market is entering a tech period. The products now have new functions like self-executing or creating customized experiences. The products usually come with WiFi capabilities and a mobile application for monitoring the pet's well-being and remote control. For example, CATLINK's Scooper, is a smart voice-controlled cat litter box. It can analyze the pet's health situation and reports it to the owner for further action. It provides owners hands-free service, including scooping and changing litters.

Rising incomes and increased urbanization is driving more consumption on pet-keeping. They turn to pets for emotional fulfillment and are willing to spend and buy the best product on their pets. A hashtag #China's single households surpass 125 million# began trending on Weibo after the finance channel of China Central Television (CCTV) posted a video about how younger single men and women are driving a boom in pet keeping.

Younger generations in China are increasingly choosing not to marry and have children, which is reflected in the plummeting birth rate seen over the last few years. With rising incomes and improving living standards, people spend more income on their own emotional fulfillment. There is a big demand emerging for safe pet food, pet care, toys, or experiences. With new pet owners, most of them are Gen Z who are young, well-educated, and wealthier, the pet industry is set to see explosive growth in the future.

Q: WHAT ARE THE IMPORTANT CHANGES YOU SEE IN THE CONSUMPTION BEHAVIOR OF SUPER MOMS? WHAT'S TRENDING WITH THEM NOW?

- (1) Strive to provide high-quality child-care. They have stronger spending power and higher willingness to consume when it comes to maternal and infant consumption. New generations of mothers are advocating high-quality child rearing and raising children scientifically, and they will continue to learn and achieve personal growth while accompanying the child's growth.
- (2) The desire to live a life of freedom. Younger mothers pay attention to themselves while caring for their children. A mother can still live as she likes when she becomes a mother, so taking babies to the wild is also more popular than going to theme parks, aquariums, and other traditional parent-child tourist attractions.
- (3) Learn by playing. It is more common for them to try to be early adopters and to raise their children in a more creative and funny way. They prefer educational toys that are both entertaining and educational.

SUPER MOMS AND DADS – NEWBORN BABIES

The birth rate in China has been falling in recent years for a variety of reasons, including a decline in the number of women of reproductive age and shifts in young people's perspectives on marriage and having children.

It is estimated that 10.62 million babies were born nationally in 2021. Compared to 2020, the drop occurred more slowly. It is apparent that the drop in birth rates will be slowed in the short term by the introduction of the three-child policy and new birth policies.

SUPER MOMS AND DADS – MARKET GROWTH

According to MMR, kids in China nowadays are as spoiled as ever. Especially since the one-child policy was abolished and the purchasing power of Chinese parents has increased, the baby personal care market in China has grown rapidly over the past few years. Thus, it is anticipated that this market would expand more.

SUPER MOMS AND DADS – BABY FOOD

According to the National Health Commission, the main market for baby products is baby food, including baby formula (0-36 months old), complementary food (6-36 months old), and children's snacks (3-12 years old). Infant food now accounts for almost a third of all baby supplies sold, and that number is set to climb as more and more parents stock up on this staple.

The recovery in its market growth can be traced back to the year 2020, when an increase in consumption and the need for specialized goods stimulated the industry. The market was valued at RMB 336.3 billion (USD 52.835 billion) in 2021, and the figure is predicted to approach RMB 500 billion.

Q: WHAT ADVICE CAN YOU GIVE TO FOREIGN MOTHER / BABY BRANDS IN CHINA IN 2023?

Focus closely on the value you bring that makes you unique - don't assume that your brand name alone will be sufficient (those days are gone) & be prepared to act fast. It's necessary to strike a balance between your home market strengths and giving Chinese mums what they want to hear - remember they do incredible amounts of research and need huge amounts of info compared to European moms.

The principles of marketing stay the same in China but the tactics of how you deliver have to be uniquely developed so do qualitative research if possible to deeply get to know your consumers. Don't neglect lower tier cities - Chinese brands such as Feihe have increased their market share hugely in part to their coverage of tiers 3-5 cities.

Q: WHAT ARE THE MOST IMPORTANT HIGHLIGHTS THAT BRANDS NEED TO BE AWARE OF IN THE MATERNITY INDUSTRY?

With the rising premiumization trend, maternal consumers continue to focus on product quality and functionality when purchasing, willing to pay a premium for functional products meeting their needs. Consequently, from a brand's perspective, many tend to present key selling points by highlighting the advantages of ingredients and functions, as well as putting much effort into developing products that can resolve TA's crucial pain points like Lactose intolerance and sleeping problems. In a nutshell, the maternal categories are becoming more and more segmented.

Q: WHAT WERE THE MOST IMPORTANT CHANGES IN CHINA'S NEW RETAIL SPACE IN 2022?

After the peak of COVID, people are expected to have more domestic consumption via experienced retail. Thus, Online Merge Offline (OMO) more or less is a must for brands and merchants towards the customer interface. Travel Retail is expected to grow within provinces in the China market, such as Hainan province for an instance.

More and more international brands are invested in the Chinaverse or the Omniverse for brand merchants. To capture the trend and the young generation of customers, it is recommended to start investment in the Omniverse and ride the wave early.

Q: IN YOUR VIEW, HOW WILL CHINA ECONOMY, CONSUMER SPENDING AND DIGITAL SPACE BE DOING IN 2023? ARE YOU OPTIMISTIC: WHY OR WHY NOT?

I am quite confident and optimistic about China's economy in 2023. Most MNCs who have been successful in China so far will double down on investment and/or localization. Almost everyone else will continue to source and buy from China in 2023. The main constraint will be the economic situation globally. Chinese consumers will gradually start spending again in 2023. I expect Chinese brands to leapfrog into the digital space 2.0 (AI, metaverse (AR/NFT), GPT, ...) to delight them. Beijing should announce many more incentives and spending plans at the two sessions in March 2023 to show that China is back. All this predicts a rebound in second half of 2023 or earlier.

Q: HOW HAS THE GREEN ECONOMY EVOLVED IN CHINA OVER THE PAST 3 PANDEMIC YEARS? DO CONSUMERS STILL CARE FOR IT NOW?

The green economy has been on the rise in China. The awareness is particularly visible in first tier cities, especially in Shanghai. Last Nov, I attended 5 sustainability related conferences: events in Shanghai within one week. In addition, 2030 peak and 2060 neutrality has been set as a national carbon reduction goal. This overachieving policy goal set the background for many businesses. Established brands have increasing efforts in sustainability, and new brands centered around green economy are popping up. The new generation of Chinese entrepreneurs has become increasingly responsible for the planet.

Based on my daily interactions, people care more about their health since COVID and long for connections with nature. This subsequently has impacts on sustainability mindset in general. On another note, major international and domestic brands have all been emphasizing more and more on sustainability, which in turn educate the consumers.

Q: SMM MARKETING WISE, WHAT SHOULD BRANDS DO IN 2023?

SMM marketing-wise, in 2023 brands need to do more branded live-streaming and less long-form content in China.

- WeChat is focusing on its WeChat Video Channel in 2023, aspiring to compete with Douyin.
- RED is focusing on tourism and other consumption recovery markets in 2023
- Douyin is focusing on Douyin eCommerce in 2023

Brands shall embrace investing in understanding Chinese consumers now in order to succeed in 2023 because the three-year COVID restrictions have changed many behaviours and attitudes of Chinese consumers.

Q: WHAT'S TRENDING ENTERTAINMENT WISE IN CHINA IN 2023?

According to PWC's "Global Entertainment and Media Outlook 2020-2024" report, virtual reality (VR), OTT, video games and eSports will take the lead in China. At the same time, we can also see several major trends, including the gradual rebound of the movie industry, the commercialization of virtual reality technology, and the application of digital technology to empower entertainment. For iQIYI, our main direction of the platform content development is IP diversification creation and content ecology cooperation as well as technology to empower content.

We see that original high-quality content is becoming increasingly attractive to users, driving more user consumption, and this has been an important driver for iQIYI for several quarters. Meanwhile, the binding of technology and entertainment is deepening. In the production part, technologies such as virtual production accelerate the increase of industrialization of film and television; on the consumer side, new forms of cultural and entertainment content such as interactive video, virtual performances, virtual people, and digital collectibles are continuously generated.

Q: IN YOUR OPINION, WHAT WAS THE MOST POPULAR NEW PRODUCT LAUNCH IN CHINA IN 2022 AND WHY?

In terms of foreign companies there have been few large brand launches in e-commerce but for example Jessica Alba's Honest Company debut on Tmall Global has been one of the more notable new market entries. How popular it will become among Chinese consumers remains to be seen. In the same category, Australian premium luxury skincare brand Aesop, which was previously only available via cross-border sales on Tmall Global, in 2022 announced the forthcoming launch of its first offline flagship store in Shanghai. Plant-based food and infant nutrition company else. out of Israel's marks another of the few notable new market entry launches via e-commerce in 2022 and so does German luxury kitchen accessories brand Wusthof.

Q: HOW HAVE CHINESE CONSUMERS CHANGE IN THE PAST 3 YEARS? HOW SHALL BRANDS ADJUST BASED ON THESE CHANGES?

For the last three years, China economy has gone high level of volatility, with 2022 recording only 3% growth in GDP. This has a profound impact on consumer market. Consumer confidence has weakened and they are putting more money in saving to prepare for their future. We are definitely see more consumers look for value for money offer and less widespread consumer upgrade.

Yet consumers are becoming more digital across all demographics and they also becoming more 'local' – buying more local brands from more 'local' stores. Health and wellbeing becomes one of the few areas consumers are willing to spend more money and in general they becomes more pragmatic, but still willing to spend on experience and self-indulgence while there were more restrictions with the COVID control.

Q: WHAT CONSUMPTION TRENDS YOU SEE DEVELOPING IN 2022?

From the lifestyle of Generation Z, outdoor sports will undoubtedly be one of the rising topics in 2022. But this trend is beginning to take shape in 2021. From the hot skiing of the Winter Olympics, to camping and Frisbee in the past two years, young people tend to look for activities that are not only close to nature but also show a refined attitude towards life in the context of the pandemic.

From the perspective of diet, Chinese consumers have lower requirements for refined cooking, and more and more instant food and pre-made dishes have become mainstream choices. Today, with the developed takeaway industry, most consumers pursue diversification of diet types rather than higher food quality. In addition, the trend of less salt, less sugar and less calories continued in 2022.

Looking at the entire consumption field, green consumption is a major trend. Second-hand deals and greener products are gaining more consumer acceptance. More and more people are concerned about the impact of consumption on ecology, and are willing to pay a premium for green consumption values.

Q: WHAT ADVICE CAN YOU GIVE FOR BRANDS DEVELOPING MARKETING STRATEGIES FOR CHINA IN 2023?

First of all, for brands that are already in the Chinese market, in order to go even beyond in 2023, it is recommended to conduct a yearly brand audit to understand how the brand is currently performing, how the brand is positioned in the market, what needs to be kept, and what needs to be done as soon as possible for improvement. Second, pay attention to and analyze the dynamics of competitors, and conduct benchmarking regularly to stand out in the competition. Third, pay close attention to rising consumer groups, analyze what it means for your brand, and what opportunities can be seized. At the same time, for operating business in China, it is also very necessary to understand China's macro policies when it comes to your industry.

Q: HOW CAN THE WEST / EAST UNDERSTAND EACH OTHER BETTER IN 2023? WHAT ARE SOME MISCONCEPTIONS STANDING IN THE WAY AND WHAT'S YOUR ADVICE TO OVERCOME THEM?

Two basic cultural misconceptions in business are as old as commerce itself, and so are their remedies. They represent two extreme views. One: culture doesn't count in 'objective' business areas that involve buildings, machines, coins, laws, miles, weights and deadlines. The other: since cultures are messy and confusing, it is impossible to understand or predict foreign behavior. I train and coach executives to overcome both errors through three simple steps. One: build trust with a few people from the other culture and ask them about their practices—books and videos should only support direct communication. Two: use empathy to understand how your actions look from their perspective. Three: figure out how you can adjust your actions to make it easier for them to do business with you. Nobody must 'act Chinese': adaptation is not imitation. Unfortunately, step one is getting harder. For instance, there is no mainstream social media today where an American or European manager could directly contact a Chinese one. Travelling to China is much harder today than five years ago, and suspicions on both sides are deeper.

Q: WHAT'S THE SHARE OF CHINESE LUXURY MARKET SPENDING GOING TO LOOK LIKE?

China's luxury goods industry is set to grow 14% year-on-year in 2023, much higher than the global growth rate of 7.5%. According to a HSBC report, although the proportion of China's total spending on personal luxury goods dropped from about 22% in 2021 to 18% in 2022, Chinese luxury consumers will still be contributing 40% of the growth in global luxury consumption demand for the next 8 years.

The percentage of Chinese luxury consumers buying abroad vs domestic really depends on the number of outbound flights happening, so it's hard to give definite numbers. As mentioned, although borders have been reopened, I'm skeptical about 2023's outbound tourism reaching pre-pandemic levels. If anything, the past few months taught us that Chinese consumers have gotten more rational in their spending. Not to mention, cases in mainland China are still rising. As stated above, I believe most Chinese luxury consumers will be purchasing domestically instead of abroad.

RELEVANT DEMOGRAPHICS CHANGES AND POLICIES

1. COMMON PROSPERITY

Economists have interpreted the Chinese “common prosperity” campaign as targeting to expand the size the middle class from 340 million people today to more than 500 million by 2025 rather than making rich Chinese people less rich.

2. MIDDLE CLASS IS THE KEY

For the target consumer groups, high-net-worth individuals and middle class people are two cores. If these two are compared, consumption is not really driven by HNWI's but more by middle class consumers.

3. LOWER-TIER CITIES

Compared with frequent repurchases, recruiting new customers from lower-tier cities is still key to expand the market. Plenty of these prospective luxury customers penetrated by increasing e-commerce adoption with wider reach form a uniquely rising group of consumers.

Q: WHAT ARE THE MOST IMPORTANT HIGHLIGHTS BRANDS NEED TO BE AWARE OF IN THE SPORTS INDUSTRY?

Sports is no longer about competition and achievement for Chinese consumers. Instead, sports are meant to improve physical and psychological well-being. People have begun to chase a pure inner happiness through sports, which have become a way of life integrated into their daily lives. “Sports +” diversified consumption scenarios and channels, offer consumers more sports choices and services, cultivate new sports industries, and promote China's sports economy and healthy consumption.

A new growth point for the sports industry has been created through the integrated development of sports and technology, education, tourism, health, medical care, lifestyle, and other industries. A good example of sports + technology is runners using smart watches GPS and mobile positioning functions to track distances, strides, etc., making running more scientific, healthy and efficient.

Q: WHAT ARE THE BEST ADVERTISING CHANNELS FOR BRANDS IN CHINA TODAY, IN YOUR VIEW, WHY AND HOW SO?

Don't expect a lot of brand building to be a priority for advertisers unless you have deep pockets and can play the long game. Gone are the days where a brand like Perfect Diary can build a brand purely on strong social marketing investment.

Social media KOL inflation costs are skyrocketing, especially within competitive categories such as beauty and technology. Given this, expect brands pushing short term sales opportunities, and the focus will be on channels that have commerce, content, media, and influence. Efficiency is going to be the key and brands will pick their battles.

Q: WHAT ARE SOME OF THE NEW EMERGING CONSUMER GROUPS IN CHINA YOU SEE RIGHT NOW?

I think it's the rising fitness users. As people pay more attention to health and sports, the functions of sports apps and smart equipment have gradually improved, and the number of users of sports and fitness apps has continued to stabilize at more than 200 million in the past year. It is estimated that by 2030, the number of people who regularly participate in physical activity will reach 560 million. China has set off a national sports boom, and the scale of China's sports industry is expected to exceed 3 trillion yuan in 2023. People's fitness needs tend to be diversified, and products related to sports and fitness will also continue to develop, tend to be customized and refined to meet the various needs of users.

Q: CHINESE POPULATION IS SHRINKING FAST. HOW DOES THIS IMPACT THE MOTHER / BABY INDUSTRY IN CHINA?

Although the birthrate is dropping, consumption of Chinese babies per child (be it in formula, food, skin care, clothing or toys) is still low by international standards of developed markets: so there is still medium to long term potential for volume growth here.

Values can be expected to also grow as the trend to premiumization and specialization continues & parents purchase at a higher price point even though 2022 saw weak spending. Trends will be for anything which promotes health and the immune system, as well as helping cognitive development & I expect there to be pressure on prices - as ever trust remains the key “hygiene factor” for any baby product

Q: WHAT INDUSTRIES DO YOU THINK WILL THRIVE OR FAIL IN 2023?

In 2023, we can expect to see several industries thriving in China. These include the technology sector, which is likely to grow rapidly as China continues to invest in the research and development of new technologies. The renewable energy sector is also likely to benefit from increased investment, as China works to increase its use of renewable energy sources.

Additionally, the medical and healthcare sector is likely to benefit from increased government investment and a greater focus on public health and well-being.

On the other hand, some industries may struggle in 2023. The automotive and manufacturing sectors are expected to face declining demand as production moves to lower-cost countries. Additionally, the mining industry is likely to be negatively impacted by increased environmental regulations and increasing public pressure.

Q: WHAT ADVICE WOULD YOU GIVE TO BRANDS WANTING TO DO MORE VIDEO CONTENT IN CHINA IN 2023?

It's no longer sufficient to take branding collateral and materials from other markets and merely add subtitles or lightly localize them for the China market. The most effective and powerful stories and marketing messages need to be driven by a deep understanding of the China landscape – which is a challenge, given that there have been many limitations on travel in and out of China in the past 3 years. Therefore, if brands want to succeed in China, they need to find ways to empower local Chinese creatives and teams who are experts in crafting effective, shareable stories and videos for the local market, and give them the autonomy and authority to craft messages that will resonate locally.

Q: WHAT WILL BE MOST IMPORTANT THING TO GET RIGHT WITH CHINESE KOLS IN 2023 FOR BRANDS AND MERCHANTS?

China is a country with diverse consumer behaviors across regions and cities. KOLs play a vital role in connecting with consumers as they are viewed as reliable sources of recommendations and opinions. Unlike Western advertising, KOLs are valued for their authenticity and relatable content. When working with Chinese KOLs, brands should keep in mind the 6C's - Creators, Community, Content, Commerce, Customers, and Culture. Creators are a driving force behind the growth of China's social and commerce platforms, with platforms like Douyin seeing a 76% increase in commerce revenue in 2021.

These creators understand China's digital communities and culture, which can be unique for each platform. To be successful in the Chinese market, brands should not rely solely on advertising. Instead, they should integrate KOLs into their business operations in China, creating a mutually beneficial relationship for the creator, customer, and brand.

Q: WHAT DO YOU BELIEVE CHINESE CONSUMERS WILL ANTICIPATE FROM BRANDS IN TERMS OF SOCIAL MEDIA COMMUNICATION IN 2023?

Consumer expect brands to pay attention to the psychological changes of themselves, grasp the mental growth of users in this process, and also provide the opportunities for consumers to join the community and share their voice with each other.

Strategies taken by growing domestic brands in China featuring the old pack of marketing channels have been blasted online for losing young customers. Meanwhile, Lululemon adapted a localized marketing strategy by launching more than 50 offline stores across China. By regularly holding dances, HIIT, yoga, pilates, and other activities, Lululemon not only offers places for gathering like-minded sports lovers but has also put a stake in the ground for developing its own brand culture in Chinese communities.

Q: HOW'S CHINA'S VIDEO CONTENT (SHORT VIDEOS, CONTENT STREAMING, SALES LIVE STREAMING, ETC.) VS THE REST OF THE WORLD? WHAT AREAS IS CHINA LEADING / LAGGING IN?

China's video platforms are much more sophisticated, commercialized, and social as compared to their counterparts in other markets. Algorithmically, platforms from ByteDance like Douyin leverage deep audience insights to deliver highly targeted content to consumers – and this same algorithm-driven strategy is playing out in the West with TikTok, which is why it's become so popular. At the same time, platforms like Xiaohongshu and Wechat's Shipin Hao are blurring the line between social sharing and ecommerce – allowing creators to monetize content via sponsored content or direct sales.

Q: HOW HAS THE VIDEO INDUSTRY IN CHINA EVOLVED IN THE PAST 3 PANDEMIC YEARS?

As in other markets, lockdowns and other pandemic related policies have enhanced the desire of consumers to consume more high-quality content on mobile devices. Algorithms of top social platforms have allowed advertisers to aggregate a much more granular understanding of their target consumers, allowing them to hyper-target their messages to very small groups of consumers with specific interests or purchasing propensities. Going forward, it seems inevitable that this will lead to more customization and cohort-specific marketing initiatives on behalf of brands – as opposed to a “one size fits all” approach.

MEGA ONLINE SHOPPING FESTIVALS

EXPERT BITE

Q: ARE SHOPPING FESTIVALS STILL BIG IN CHINA, OR THEY ARE MORE OF A NUISANCE FOR SHOPPERS NOW?

In recent years, e-commerce platforms frequently launch promotional activities and discounts, gradually sapping consumers' enthusiasm for shopping festivals. Besides, consumers feel fed up with complicated discount rules. But this does not mean that shopping festivals become totally nuisances. Consumers are still aggressively seeking discounts and promotions and want to buy high-quality products at affordable prices. Major shopping festivals remain appealing to consumers because all platforms launch promotional discounts for a wider range of product categories during a concentrated time, providing consumers with more choices and affordable prices.

During the 2023 New Year Shopping Festival, for the first time, Tmall canceled the rule of discount with a threshold of payment amount. Instead, products were sold directly at preferential prices with no payment threshold. Therefore, fewer but more earnestly prepared shopping festivals providing better consumption experiences are expected soon.

CHINESE NEW YEAR

China New Year (or the Spring festival) is predominately a gift giving festival and is China's most important traditional holiday. The 2023 Chinese New Year holiday started on January 22nd and ended on January 29th.

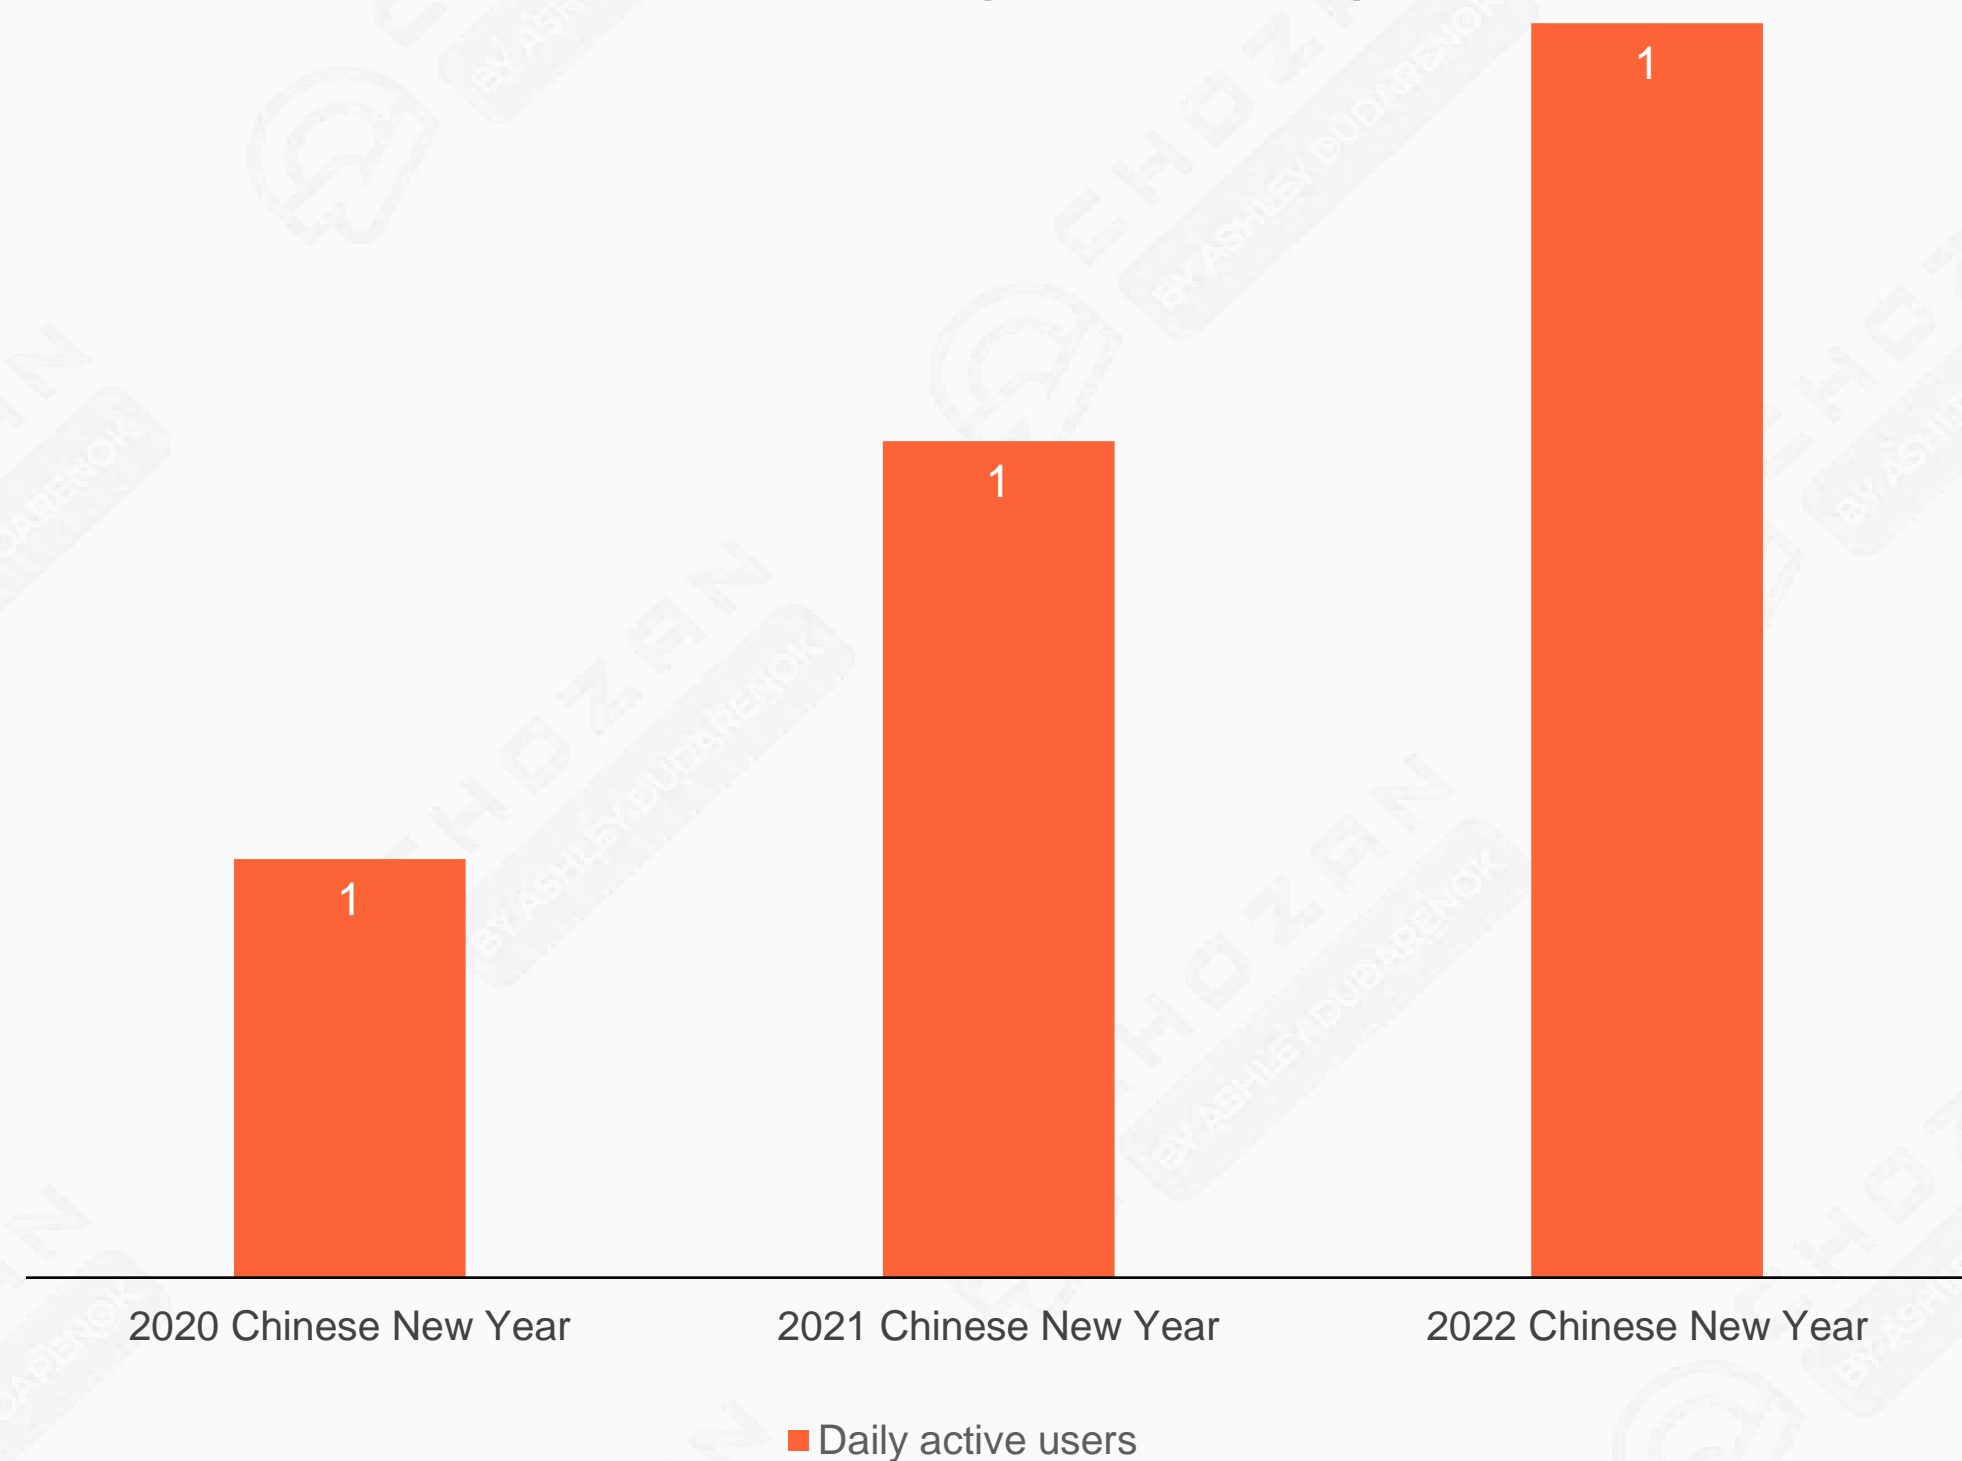

During Chinese New Year, many Chinese people will buy things for their families, thus, many short video platforms and e-commerce platforms will hold interactive campaigns with the theme of "New Year' Goods Carnival", releasing coupons and providing discounts to stimulate people to shop.

CHINESE NEW YEAR

Chinese New Year generally has seven days of holidays, plus increasing hours of use. The policy of pandemic quarantine is one of the contributions to the increase. According to the survey, Chinese Internet users reach 8,720 million active daily in 2022, 140 million more than in 2021. It was also found that the length of usage on the first day of the New Year was long, reaching 6.91 hours.

Q: WILL CHINESE TOURISTS COME BACK TO OVERSEAS DESTINATIONS, WHERE WILL THEY GO AND HOW SOON?

For the restart of outbound travel, three main bottlenecks must be navigated: passports, visa, and air connections. Therefore, in the first quarter 2023 beside visits to Hong Kong SAR and Macau SAR, mostly business and VFR travel will happen. From the second quarter 2023, leisure tourism will start in increasing numbers.

The majority will as before stay in Asia, but Chinese tourists have had three years to dream about where they want to go and to swap stories in their WeChat groups. There will be a growing interest in discovering less conventional destinations, which will produce opportunities for Europe to increase its overall market share, and for less visited cities and regions within the bigger countries as well as for new destinations like, for example, Albania, Georgia, Ireland or Portugal. The traditional hotspots like Paris or Milano will need to create new reasons for a visit, as the percentage of first-timer among the Chinese visitors to Europe will be lower than before the pandemic.

HEALTH-FOCUSED

As the popularity of health food at the 618 shopping festival shows, Chinese consumers have become more health concerned in recent years.

JD saw a doubling of sales for more than 1,500 different health and nutrition food items. In recent years, Kuaishou has seen a 120% increase in the sales of low sugar and low fat foods.

HIGH QUALITY PRODUCTS

The rapid expansion of certain industries is directly attributable to people's insatiable hunger for a high quality life.

There was a year-over-year increase of 215% in sales of luxury beverages like organic milk powder, A2 milk, premium tea, and specialty coffee on JD.

Multiple channels, notably Tmall and Kuaishou, saw a meteoric rise in the sale of specialized perfumes and fragrances.

RATIONAL SHOPPING

During this 618 shopping festival, people have begun to be more rational in their spending.

In past shopping festivals, people would stock up on products because there were so many deals and the atmosphere was tense.

On the other hand, despite the explosive marketing information in 2022, many shoppers still chose to shop in a sensible way.

DOUBLE 11

Alibaba's singles' day (or Double 11) is the most popular e-commerce shopping festival in China. It is a day of intense potential for brands and retailers, and enthusiastic involvement by ever growing participants each year. For ALIBABA it is a day for innovation, system potential testing, and future re-adjustment. With pre-sales becoming more profitable in the warm up periods each year, live-streaming will continue to contribute greatly to the market.

EXPERT BITE

Q: IN YOUR OPINION WHAT'S CHANGED IN CONSUMERS' CONSUMPTION BEHAVIOR DURING DOUBLE 11?

There was less excitement, partly due to Beijing policy directing tech giants to pull back on the razmataz, partly due to other life challenges taking precedent, and partly because the festival is not novel like it once was. Fewer consumers are prepared to wait until midnight to get the best deals, hence the kickoff time being kept at 8pm for presales. Another noticeable change is the diversity of platforms consumers will shop at.

DOUBLE 11 - NEW USERS BROUGHT BY DOUBLE ELEVEN

THE NUMBER OF NEWLY INSTALLED USERS OF TYPICAL PLATFORM APPS DURING THE FIRST WAVE OF SALES ON DOUBLE ELEVEN IN 2022

The Double Eleven shopping festival can still bring new users to e-commerce platforms. This growth is very obvious in Pinduoduo, and it has also brought new users to Kuaishou and Douyin, two live e-commerce platforms. But this shopping festival did not bring significant growth to Taobao, JD.com and Tmall.

DOUBLE 11 - AGE DISTRIBUTION OF NEW USERS OF TYPICAL E-COMMERCE PLATFORM

AGES OF NEW USERS OF TYPICAL COMPREHENSIVE E-COMMERCE APPS DURING THE FIRST WAVE OF SALES ON DOUBLE ELEVEN IN 2022

During the first wave of sales on Double Eleven in 2022, the gender characteristics of the new users attracted by Taobao and Pinduoduo were not obvious, but JD.com attracted more female consumers.

JD.com's original main product categories were digital products and home appliances, and its target users were men. However, in recent years, JD.com has worked hard to expand the product categories covered by the platform, and is attracting more female users through clothing and beauty makeup.

2022 DOUBLE 11 PERIOD, THE DISTRIBUTION OF ADVERTISING COSTS BY MEDIA TYPE TOP5

The advertising during the period from October 20th to November 11th shows that for the short-term holiday promotional advertisements such as Double Eleven, instant messaging platforms with high opening frequency are the best choice for advertising.

Moreover, the instant messaging platform has a strong social attribute of acquaintances, and brands can realize private domain marketing through advertising on the communication platform.

Q: WHAT DO YOU THINK BRANDS NEED TO DO TO STAND OUT FOR CHINESE CONSUMERS DURING DOUBLE 11?

The fundamentals remain the same as in recent years, as in that brands need to provide either a unique benefit to consumers, a unique brand heritage and related story telling or - ideally - a combination of both. Especially foreign brands increasingly feel the pressure from domestic competitors and can no longer rest on their laurels of previous years, constant product innovation and localization for the domestic market is key.

It is also noteworthy that in 2022, as a result of increased government regulations, ads can now be cross-served between different ecosystems such as WeChat and Tmall, which allows better consumer targeting, re-targeting, upselling and tapping into larger audience pools than in previous years. Another key differentiator for brands can be to co-develop products together with the large marketplaces such as Alibaba with their The Tmall Innovation Center (TMIC) specifically for the large campaign periods such as 11.11.

Q: WHAT'S YOUR RECOMMENDED KOL STRATEGY FOR LUXURY BRANDS IN CHINA FOR 2023?

There is no one-size-fits-all KOL strategy, and it is up to brands to define their objectives for each KOL collaboration. While working with top tier KOLs and celebrities will help to drive awareness, it will be difficult for brands to achieve a significant ROI due to the hefty costs that come with such collaborations – unless they manage to work with the famous few at the top and tap into the fan economy.

Conversely, working with a large volume of KOCs can be impactful in helping brands to capture share of voice and drive conversions, but might not necessarily drive the same kind of awareness a top-tier idol would. At the end of the day, brands need to prioritise what makes sense for the business.

Q: SHALL BRANDS DO WEIBO MARKETING IN 2023, WHY OR WHY NOT?

Brands should do Weibo marketing - but they should increasingly focus on leveraging the short video and long-form video distribution capacity of Weibo. This is mainly because organic exposures for traditional image-text posts are shrinking, and even requires additional budget so that followers can see the content. While short videos have additional traffic support, and also benefiting from better impact to customers.

Q: WHAT SMM TRENDS (MARKETING + COMMERCE) DO YOU SEE IN CHINA THAT WILL BOOM IN 2023?

It's predicted that China's virtual people industry will be more than USD $7Bn by 2025. These virtual influencers can be game changing for brands, creating opportunities for a cast of characters micro-targeting communities of consumers and users by platform and reaching high-potential, yet under-served consumer segments with deeply relatable and aspirational influencers and messaging.

Q: IN YOUR OPINION, WHICH MARKETS WILL BE THE MOST SUCCESSFUL IN 2023 FOR FOREIGN BRANDS IN CHINA?

Travel related industries will recover and grow in 2023, including hotels, restaurants, shopping malls and duty-free stores. FMCG may still be facing challenges, as least for the first half of 2023. Foreign brands sometimes can't react as fast as local brands. Brands should fully understand the local policy and the change of consumer sentiments and adjust as soon as possible.

EXPERT BITE

Q: MARKETING WISE IN 2023, WHAT DO BRANDS NEED TO DO MORE OF AND LESS OF IN CHINA?

In 2023, Brands need to double-click both internally and externally.

Externally, brands need to be more in touch than ever regarding market sensitivities, policy changes, and influencer-related risks. Specifically on the latter, selecting a KOL based on fan base, engagement, and reach is simply not enough in today's environment. Leaders must conduct due diligence to protect our brands and invest in strong partnerships. This means we need to consider attributes like brand fit, past issues, and future opportunities. At McCann Worldgroup we have created a bespoke, AI-driven tool that does just this.

Internally, marketing leaders can benefit from closely engaging with finance partners to align KPIs. By setting aligned goals and agreeing on targets, as well as how to measure progress, marketers can set themselves, their teams, and the business up for success.

Q: WHAT DO YOU BELIEVE CHINESE CONSUMERS WILL ANTICIPATE FROM BRANDS IN TERMS OF SOCIAL MEDIA COMMUNICATION IN 2023?

Chinese consumer expects brands not to educate the consumer, but to establish an equal relationship for building a closer alignment. For instance, Tai'er launched "Just Dance" campaign to invite consumers to visit and engage in the activity in the offline store, which meets young people's demands of expressing personality. Consumer wishes their unique thoughts to be understood, to be encouraged and to be recognized by the brand.

Q: WHAT SHALL BRANDS START AND STOP DOING ON WECHAT / WECHAT MINI PROGRAMS IN 2023 TO SUCCEED?

In my opinion brands should stop providing consumers with a better offer on marketplaces. Brands need to start to give priority to their direct channels such as WeChat in terms of: product availability, pricing, payment options and deliver promise.

Without the total offer being on par, brands are, sometime unknowingly, driving consumers to channels where they need to pay commission and they do not own the customer data.

Q: IN YOUR VIEW, WHAT'S THE WINNING FORMULA FOR SMM IN CHINA IN 2023? WHAT SHALL BRANDS DO MORE / LESS?

There is no straight answer to it. However, I would say SMM in China in 2023 has to be focused, personal, and trustworthy. Each campaign should know exactly who the target audience is and then tailor their strategy and activities accordingly. When we look at SMM, we should never forget other offline activities to enhance its impact.

For example, if an overseas property developer wants to attract Chinese HNWIs and investors, they should be focusing on building its brand reputation through top-tier trusted Chinese media platforms, WeChat, RED and targeted social media influencer marketing. They should also look to do in-person events and brand partnership to build personal, long-lasting relationship. A mix of right activities online and offline, with the consistent messaging on each platform, will ultimately win the hearts of the consumers and hence leads and sales.

Upon the launch of the new eye cream-Super Multi-Corrective Eye Zone Treatment in 2022, the company opted to use the branding combination "app open ad + super large window ad + Hot search topics +Fan Headline + Fan Tunnel".

By consistently and accurately reaching out to people who are interested in skin care, white collar workers, and high-conversion online shopping, the circle has transformed from attraction to engagement.

The topic #科颜氏紫玻A眼霜# is a topic released by Kiehl's official account. As of 17 Nov 2022, the topic got 99 million views .

Q: WHAT TRENDS / DEVELOPMENTS ARE YOU WATCHING MOST CLOSELY FOR CHINA FOR 2023?

What I definitely will be closely following is how Chinese social media landscape is becoming more diversified. It's not just WeChat and Weibo anymore. There's so many different platforms that are now playing a major role in China's social media ecosystem from RED to Bilibili to Zhihu to newer players and so many others. It's really fun to see how each of these different apps are starting to fulfill a different role in the social media landscape.

These social media platforms aren't just about e-commerce anymore, it's also about educating people, motivating people, getting people to exercise, etc. Live streaming is maturing in very different ways than in the West, and this is definitely a very interesting thing to watch.

Q: WHAT ARE YOUR SOCIAL MEDIA MARKETING RECOMMENDATIONS FOR BRANDS IN CHINA?

WeChat: customer retention and digital community is essential. Try to build a consistent and smooth consumer journey from awareness, interest, purchase to loyalty and make sure the attractive repurchase mechanisms are offered to continuously retain customer attention and increase product relevance in consumers' life.

RED: extensive product seeding with different levels of KOL/KOCs can help increase brand awareness and contribute to sales.

Douyin: post interesting and eye-catching short videos and seize the opportunity to initiate live-streaming sessions to further boost sales.

For Weibo, as the social buzz generator, collaborate with top celebrities to gain much brand exposure.

Kuaishou: target tier 3 and tier 4 city dwellers and make sure the brand-generated content is relevant and down-to-earth.

Q: ARE KOCS STILL RELEVANT IN CHINA FOR 2023?

With the rise of scandals in the celebrity as well as big KOL segments brands are reminded to not put all the eggs in one basket, hence Micro KOLs and KOCs will increase in importance moving into this year. The industry has become more mature and mainstream meaning it's not enough to just "work" with KOLs, you need to have a clear strategy defining the purpose for each level of KOL as well as category.

Just like a football team, each specific player has its specific purpose, the same thing goes for KOLs. Some are great for visual content, some others for brand awareness, i.e., lower your CPM, and some are more transactional oriented, but understand that you need them all. One player can not and should not be expected to do everything. In short it has become more complex as strategy and creativity is now as important as the KOLs themselves.

Different from other social media platforms, the interactions between Bilibili's uploader (UP主) and users contribute to building a unique sense of participation in the Bilibili community.

GET USER RECOGNITION BY CLOSE INTERACTION

Bilibili's uploaders are not only creating content, but also communicating with users by bullet chatting, comments, posts, and live streaming. They are approachable but not out-of-reach, which helps to build a two-way communication and community vibe.

AUDIENCES HAVE A HIGH RECOGNITION FOR QUALITY UGC CREATORS

When it comes to Bilibili's top uploaders, sections with more UGC content have more creators who own "a million fans". But, in terms of sections that require professional content, users will only be concentrated under a few top official OGC accounts.

SOCIAL MEDIA

BILIBILI PLATFORM - CONTENT MARKETING STRATEGY

Bilibili creates a 4i interest marketing model to build brand assets based on high quality content and long term user relationships.

SOCIAL MEDIA

BILIBILI PLATFORM - TOP MARKETING METHODS

1 Targeting Gen Z

The heavy use of the Internet makes Generation Z more willing to trust user-originated content and the opinions of netizens they follow, such as KOLs. They are more sensitive to online information and are more likely to distinguish between true and false information. Younger consumers are more likely to engage in interactive behaviours related to product consumption, are more willing to interact and share, and are more proactive in their evaluations.

2 Pay attention to PUGV content cooperation

Keep the content native during the cooperation. Avoid changing the style of the publisher due to commercial cooperation. Ensure the content is valuable, interesting and knowledge-based.

3 Live streaming & bullet comments

These interactions cultivate a sense of engagement, has been the mainstream way of brand marketing. Durex, millet, Zhihu and other brands have done live streaming on Bilibili, such as Durex's "three hundred people for three hours" air broadcast, Lei Jun's live conference.

SOCIAL MEDIA

BILIBILI PLATFORM - CONTENT MARKETING BEST PRACTICE

<Dancing Millennium (舞千年)>, a cultural drama dance program created by Bilibili and Henan Satellite TV, is succeeded in helping brands to deliver creative content marketing ideas, shape brand persona, and build emotional resonance with target audiences.

1 Combined branding messages in the programme with a soft-sell approach

2 Leveraged the theme idea of the programme to build up a brand persona

3 Reached the target circle through marketing campaigns on and off the show

Q: HOW TO CREATE ENGAGING CONTENT ON WECHAT, RED, DOUYIN, WEIBO, BILIBILI?

The most important thing in creating engaging content is to provide effective information from a "consumer benefit point of view" aka "what the consumer can get from your content?" These benefits may be valuable gifts, consulting on product choice, knowledge accumulation, interesting experiences, or even just a moment of psychological relaxation or comfort. Then, through content editing that conforms to the contextual habits and platform characteristics of the target group (for example, content related to advanced taste is more suitable for dissemination on Xiaohongshu, videos that reflect the average human world are more likely to resonate on Douyin, and WeChat & Weibo are preferred for collaboration launch. Bilibili might be the first choice for digital game promotion, etc.), shortening the communication path, so that users who are immersed in fragmented information every day will become interested in your marketing content even if it's just a glance.

Q: WHAT'S THE MOST BUZZING TOPIC IN CHINA'S LEGAL FIELD THIS YEAR?

Foreign investment in China's tech companies has gotten more complicated. For international corporations, accessing corporate data from China can become difficult in the near term. Foreign companies running platforms or apps in China must be more vigilant when collecting and using personal information amid a tighter regulatory environment.

Over the last few years, the economic slowdown caused by the Covid and a string of unexpected regulatory moves from policymakers contributed to the more challenging business environment and impacted overall market optimism.

The most buzzing word (rather than topic) for 2023 is uncertainty. China has suddenly removed the zero Covid policy and the rules and regulations for mobility of people has completely changed. On one side this brings hope, optimism, and a crazy increase in travel opportunities in China and from abroad. However, there is always the "what if" scenario that does make people hesitant.

KOL INSIGHTS

UNDERSTANDING KOLS IN CHINA

EXPERT BITE

Q: WHAT DO YOU THINK WILL BE HAPPENING WITH KOL INDUSTRY IN THE FUTURE?

The competition in the industry will be more intense, while the requirements for KOL professionalism and security will be higher. Instead of paying a large fee to many unfamiliar KOLs at one time, brands tend to carry out long-term collaboration with highly professional KOLs, including daily promotion, creation of cooperative products, joint sales, etc., in order to reduce promotion and management costs, and reap the effect of credit precipitation.

In addition to the spontaneous creation of users and the support of operating agencies, the brand side will also become the driving force behind the cultivation of KOLs. They may work with new platforms or upgraded features of current platforms, use effective sharing and reward mechanisms, and develop ordinary consumers or salespersons into product promoters through brand education and self-growth, so that they can influence more ordinary consumers, and eventually become opinion leaders. Also, with the development and advancement of technology, more and more virtual KOLs will appear in this industry.

Q: WHAT IS THE WINNING FORMULA FOR KOL AND KOC MARKETING IN CHINA IN 2023?

1. Thorough understanding of the target audience, including their challenges, purchasing patterns, preferences, trends, subcultures, and geographical distribution across tier cities.
2. Clear and realistic KPIs to measure the success of the marketing campaign.
3. A strategic KOL/KOC matrix that aligns the strengths and capacities that each influencer tier possesses for different functions across platforms with the objectives of the marketing campaign.
4. A well-crafted content segmentation plan that prioritizes the creation and distribution of content that resonates with targeted consumer groups, fostering engagement and brand awareness.
5. Efficient content moderation that maintains a consistent brand voice across different content formats and platforms while preserving the authenticity of the KOL/KOC.
6. Real-time monitoring and measurement of KOL/KOC performance to stay current on trends and adapt quickly to market changes.

Q: WHAT ARE YOUR RECOMMENDATIONS FOR BRANDS CHOOSING BETWEEN HUMAN AND VIRTUAL KOLS?

We can't ignore the elephant in the room (virtual KOLs); the truth is that this trend will begin to take its ground in the market the way Ai art has in the west. I recommend using whatever's "hot" in the market; it will directly benefit your brand. As they say, "go with the flow." Jumping on the virtual KOL trend is "hot" right now.

Q: WHAT ARE YOUR SUGGESTIONS FOR DEVELOPING MARKETING STRATEGIES AND COLLABORATING WITH KOLS IN 2023?

Marketing campaigns are not all about positive sales contribution during outbreak periods but also about the consistent communication message delivered throughout the campaign. It is key to come up with an effective creative idea both aligning with the brand's DNA and uniquely responding to the customers' needs.

When it comes to collaborating with KOLs, try to explore different formats of collaboration, be it short-term live-streaming promotion, long-term partnership or regular products seeding. Also, the KOL selection criteria should be based on whether the influencer can bring out the brand spirit and contribute to exploring other potential groups of customers.

VIRTUAL KOL MARKET SIZE

China's virtual KOL, are digitally generated characters, there are virtual singers, virtual IP characters and hyper-realistic virtual human. China's virtual KOL industry is expected to grow to 20.52 billion RMB by 2023.

In the past three years, more than 30 brands cooperated with virtual humans, and virtual humans have gradually gained a share of the endorsement market. Under such circumstances, in order to better promote the brand and create new attractions, brands have also begun to launch their own avatars.

VIRTUAL KOLS

1.0- Virtual singers

Luo Tianyi: A Chinese VOCALOID, China's biggest virtual idol.

2.0 - Virtual idols

WXWZ boy group: a virtual boy group developed by TiMi Studio. It is based on their IP, Honor of Kings.

Ye Xiu: An Esports player of Glory. Awarded as "Most Popular Virtual drama Idol" in 2022

3.0 - Hyper-realistic virtual KOL

AYAYI: Was created in May of 2021 as first "meta-human" in China.

Ling: China's First AI Virtual Influencer, launched in May 2020.

FALL OF KOLS

Earlier in 2021, China tightened regulations on influencers industry in regards to their use of multi-channel networks (MCNs). The names of MCNs that influencers belongs to should be displayed on the account's profile page in Douyin, Weibo, RED and WeChat.

At the same time, the government also pay more attention to the content regulations and influencers investigations, avoiding the incorrect values and negative guidance to audience.

The disappearance of Li Jiaqi in 2022, the super live streamer in China and the collapse of another Chinese top KOL Viya in 2021, give the brands a concern on the KOL marketing strategies and how to have a reliable and "safe" choice.

FALL OF KOLS - AUSTIN LI

On June 3rd, 2022, Austin Li, China's top livestreaming sales influencer with over 60 million followers on the Alibaba-owned e-commerce platform Taobao, his live stream channel was suddenly cut after he promoted an ice cream product which was decorated as a tank. Although he said it was due to "technical difficulties" after the live stream, most people understand it triggered some sensitive issues in China.

After 3 months, Austin Li returned to his channel on September 9th, attracting more than 63 million viewers in the 2-hour live stream.

Q: WHAT ARE YOUR RECOMMENDATIONS FOR PLANNING MARKETING CAMPAIGNS AND WORKING WITH KOLS IN 2023?

In the post-pandemic era, rather than joining in on an online campaign, Gen Z prefers outdoor activities which have the value of relieving stress and socializing. Brands are also paying attention to the trend of outdoor socialization. On RED, which is good at building community circles, brands cooperating with KOLs and KOCs have launched a series of campaigns such as camping, frisbee, hiking, surfskate, cycling, etc., to help users create new opportunities.

Q: IN YOUR VIEW, WHAT ARE THE TOP 3 ISSUE CHINA WILL NEED TO NAVIGATE THIS DECADE. WHAT DOES THIS MEAN FOR BUSINESSES?

Who will care for the old? China's enormous baby boomer generation that drove the manufacturing revolution is rounding into retirement. The one-child gen cannot support them. A failure to look after China's aging population could be an economic, political, and spiritual crisis all rolled into one. It's a youth issue as much as it is an elderly issue.

Can China go global? China's most prominent companies have done a phenomenal job of unearthing consumption at home. They have largely failed to go global with great success, with several notable exceptions. This decade should define not only the government as a global power but also China's companies.

How will the housing bubble play out? This is an economic issue that will very quickly turn political, as a vastly disproportional amount of household wealth is wrapped up in property in China. A housing crash could cause enormous political instability and a seriously damaged consumer confidence.

Q: WHAT ADVICE CAN YOU GIVE FOR BRANDS DEVELOPING A MARKETING STRATEGY FOR CHINA IN 2023?

China market is ever-changing at an incredible speed, but the core always remains the same, namely to stand in consumers' shoes and solve their problems. When considering their needs, besides material level, non-material ones - such as self-improvement desires in the post-covid era - are also crucial. It requires brands to think bigger for more emotional values that can truly benefit and convince consumers.

Q: WHAT DO YOU EXPECT 2023 TO BE FOR CHINA: A GOOD YEAR OR NOT. WHY?

Having attended the World Economic Forum (WEF) in Davos in January and talking to key policymakers and CEOs, I remain bullish on the outlook for the Chinese economy this year as a growth driver for the world. At the annual meeting in the Swiss mountains, China's Vice-Premier Liu He declared his country open to the world after three years of pandemic isolation, and emphasized international cooperation, economic stability and re-globalization.

Without major financial disruptions and geopolitical shocks, I believe that China's economy will be able to grow at a pace of 4.4% in 2023 as forecast by the International Monetary Fund (IMF) or slightly higher.

Q: IN YOUR VIEW, WHAT ARE THE CHALLENGES AND OPPORTUNITIES IN CHINA IN 2023?

We can be upbeat about China because of the removal of Covid restrictions and lockdowns; China's new rescue plan for the property sector; a more moderate and less hawkish US monetary policy in 2023; improving geo-politics, especially the US-China relationship following the recent meeting in Bali between President Xi and President Biden; pent up consumer demand following months of lockdowns and a significant rise in the personal savings rate (some reports indicate that personal savings in China has increased by RMB 10 trillion in the last 3 years); expected further Government stimulus to restore the economy to pre-pandemic levels (keep an eye on the March 2023 CCP meeting), with an expected GDP growth rate of potentially over 5%.

Recent reports to clients from large institutional investment firms (e.g., Morgan Stanley and UBS) which suggests they are turning bullish on the China market. As an example, see Morgan Stanley Upgrades China Stocks on Reopening Bullishness.

Q: IN YOUR EXPERIENCE, WHAT IS THE BEST WAY TO DEVELOP AN INTEGRATED MARKETING STRATEGY FOR CHINA IN 2023? ?

In my experience, a sound integrated marketing strategy is usually made up of a few key components:

- Determine the right team of resources to ensure we have the right person for the job
- Defining your audience and goals
- Delivering a consistent brand experience that true to your purpose
- Developing impactful content that is adaptable across multiple channels
- Decide how you can optimize the campaign using data and insights when measuring success

In a world of evolving consumer expectations, expect things to change quickly so be agile and decisive when it comes.

UNDERSTAND YOUR INDUSTRY

1

THE CHINESE MARKET IS AN ENORMOUS ECONOMIC GIANT AND IS ALSO HIGHLY COMPLEX. THEIR ECONOMIC TIERS ARE DIVIDED ACCORDING TO THEIR CITY TIERS, WITH TOP-TIER CITIES LIKE BEIJING AND XIACHEN CITIES (LOWER-TIER) LIKE JINAN OR HEFEI.

IT IS CRUCIAL TO UNDERSTAND THE MARKETING DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THE TWO

Q: WHEN IT COMES TO SOCIAL MEDIA MARKETING IN CHINA IN 2023, FIRMS NEED TO FOCUS ON WHICH STRATEGIES?

Brands need to do truly focus on building media assets that are owned and created inhouse, using these to build owned audience slowly and cumulatively, and owned community. Brands really need to rely less on influencers and borrowed reach. Brands can further remove risk by building out virtual influencers – think back to the days of character IP from branded campaigns in advertising.

Brands shall embrace owned audience via media assets, virtual influencer or otherwise, inhouse video and live functions, now, to succeed in 2023 because that's what the audience are preferring, and it's what the platforms are delivering.

ARNOLD MA

Founder and CEO at Qumin

EXPERT BITE

Q: WHAT ARE YOUR RECOMMENDATIONS FOR FOREIGN BRANDS IN CHINA?

We have seen some brands being able to increase their conversion 10 folds by having the right clientele, user Interface, data management, and marketing automation approach. On top of this, brands that will win it all in 2023 after fully building their omnichannel playbooks will be the ones setting up attractive Loyalty Systems to ensure they remain relevant and interesting for their clients.

Last but not least, brands should beware to not get fooled by setting up a process where you need to check boxes and subscribe to new systems like sCRM, CDP, and CRM. Most companies today are not using more than 20% of the functionalities of the tools they are purchasing. Therefore, it is best to first maximize the projects and processes you are currently leveraging before moving to a new one. Each technology will always need the support of a consultant to maximize its output despite what technology vendors tell you initially. Do not neglect that effort.

Q: WHAT CAN YOU RECOMMEND FOR BRANDS ENTERING CHINA EARLY 2023?

With the rise of localized brands and consumers' growing attention to brand and quality, the competition in the Chinese market is becoming more and more intense. Before entering the Chinese market, you must be well prepared. First of all, you need to understand the current status and future trends of your industry in China, and what are the opportunities and challenges if you enter at this time.

Second, we need to know which key players are in the industry, how are they performing, and what are their strategies, so that we can identify how we can stand out in the competition. Third, you need to understand what the target audience is. The market is changing rapidly and it is very important to understand the current consumer portrait, their lifestyle, consumption habits and preferences. Based on the above research insights, build a customized brand marketing strategy for the entry

Our founder, Ashley, is a well-known speaker and can deliver keynotes full of energy, insight and inspiration that will transform your event, motivate you and help you achieve your goals.

● CONSULTING CALLS

The quickest way to get your specific, urgent China marketing questions answered. Speak with Ashley or her team if you're under time pressure and need to get on the right track fast.

● CHINA MARKETING VIDEO COURSES

An 8-module masterclass available to anyone with an internet connection to get them up to speed on China's market, its modern consumers and Chinese social media marketing and selling.

● BOOKS AND MARKETING GUIDES

The most comprehensive books on the market about China's e-commerce landscape, Chinese social media influencers and New Retail. You can also buy our highly detailed WeChat and Weibo guidebooks to gain confidence with China's two most powerful social apps.
